Atoms in the Family Jun 13 2020 In this absorbing account of life with the great atomic scientist Enrico Fermi, Laura Fermi tells the story of their emigration to the United States in the 1930s—part of the widespread movement of scientists from Europe to the New World that was so important to the development of the first atomic bomb. Combining intellectual biography and social history, Laura Fermi traces her husband's career from his childhood, when he taught himself physics, through his rise in the Italian university system concurrent with the rise of fascism, to his receipt of the Nobel Prize, which offered a perfect opportunity to flee the country without arousing official suspicion, and his odyssey to the United States.

A Mind Always in Motion: The Autobiography of Emilio Segrè May 25 2021 Born in Italy to a well-to-do Jewish family, Emilio Segrè (1905-1989) became Enrico Fermi's first graduate student in 1928, contributed to the discovery of slow neutrons and was appointed director of the University of Palermo's physics laboratory in 1936. While visiting the Radiation Laboratory in Berkeley, California in 1938, he learned that he had been dismissed from his Palermo post by Mussolini's Fascist regime. Ernest O. Lawrence hired him to work on the cyclotron at Berkeley with Luis Alvarez, Edwin McMillan, and Glenn Seaborg. Segrè was one of the first to join Oppenheimer at Los Alamos, where he became a group leader on the Manhattan Project. In 1959, he won the Nobel Prize in physics for the discovery of the antiproton. He was a professor of physics at UC Berkeley from 1946 until 1972. "[A] readable, absorbing, interesting autobiography... A valuable contribution by a person who witnessed the development of much of modern nuclear physics. Segrè's description of the historic neutron experiments performed in Rome during the mid-1930s by Enrico Fermi's group, of which Segrè was a member, is of inestimable worth." — Glenn T. Seaborg, Physics Today "A Mind Always in Motion is Emilio Segrè's account — published four years after his death in 1989 — of his personal life and his life in physics... It is absorbing, moving in places and frequently revealing. Segrè noted in his preface, 'I have not sought to display manners and tact I never had, and I have tried to treat myself no better than any one else.' He ably succeeded in these purposes." — Daniel J. Kevles, Nature "For general readers with an interest in the history of nuclear physics, Segrè... is among the most personable witnesses." — Publishers Weekly

Important Versus Diminished Feb 19 2021 Did you ever notice that some women feel important if and when they get married, but some men feel diminished? Doctor Dawn Whisper, whispers on the radio airwaves from midnight until dawn. Today she looked forward to spending her bonus at a Sedona, Arizona personality quirks-watching convention to get out of

Beverly Hills in the heat of August. Her daydream faded at the sudden burst of pounding on her condominium door from who she thought of as the "take-away man," her ex-fiancé, Mr. Toxic (to her), the man who made her feel diminished. Dawn thought that she had bonded to him at the lowest moment of her self-esteem. She sure didn't plan to marry at the level of her self-esteem at her lowest moment now that she could stand on her own two feet again, without worrying at least for the moment, from where the next paycheck would come. That's how the radio broadcasting world functioned. More people listened to mellow male voices than to Dawn's squeaky baby-voice drawl sometimes labeled by males as shrieking, loud and shrill at times and Popeye cartoon character, Olive Oyl-like when confronted by misogynistic questions from callers to her midnight shift radio talk show. Groggy and outraged, she leapt out of a pre-work nap in the blackness and slipped on a book she had tossed on the floor next to her bed. Dawn skidded into the wall and went down hard. The pounding grew louder as she fumbled for the lamp switch, her heart kicking in her throat. Doctor Dawn Whisper's eyes ached at the light's brilliance. She glanced down at the front cover of her new book. The photo had her open-mouthed beside a microphone and the title read, "The Nation's Number One Midnight Shift Radio Talk Show Psychologist." There was a rush of fear as she listened to the pounding turn to kicking at the door. Dawn rubbed her backside and sidled over to the peephole. She peered through and saw it was Craig, her ex-fiancé. Dawn opened the door, stepped in the hall, and shut the door. Unconsciously she leaned against it, locking herself and Craig in the hall. "What's the matter? Don't you want me to see the mess?" Craig smiled at her, taking a key from his own pocket. He opened the door for her. "I must be dreaming," she sighed with utmost resilience. He let her in. At that moment she felt the power of his control and began to push against him to assert hers. And she realized it's time to get back that debate-winning voice of confidence.

Jack & Helen Frye Story Aug 20 2023 From the shadows of beyond the words pour forth like summer rain.... The Jack and Helen Frye Story is much more than the chronology of two people's lives, it's a spiritual quest, a yearning from the heart of soul-mates Helen and Jack who desire their story to be told, their priceless paths not be erased! Time has a way of forgetting who was, and what was, but the written word lays it all at our feet. From a small town in West Virginia, to the gold-paved streets of Fifth Avenue, Helen Varner knew she was born to walk a path; a path that would lead her far and away from her origins. Her talents as a hat-maker and seamstress, writer, sculptor, and artist, opened doors to a gilded and rose-hued horizon. Within these pages, unfolds the sojourn of a woman who knows what she wants and goes after it. Voluptuous and beautiful, the world's most powerful men fall at her feet. In 1935, 26-year-old Helen Varner marries 36-year-old playboy Cornelius Vanderbilt IV. Later, after a separation, she moves to mystical Shanghai and Hollywood. By 1938, Helen meets the love of her life, aviation-legend Jack Frye. As President of TWA, Frye trail-blazes the dawning of aviation and tames Helen's heart with his fleet of sleek airliners and big western charm. Jack and Helen marry by January 1941, and embark on the wings of an American Love Story, as only soul mates can share. In flights over the Western United States in their private plane, Jack and Helen settle on the Red Rock Country of Sedona Arizona to build a new life together. With a grand act of chivalry, Jack buys a massive ranch adjoining Oak Creek and hands the deed to Helen. Frye and Howard Hughes develop the Lockheed Constellation during W.W. II and Frye loans his planes to the U.S. Government, culminating in a wartime partnership with the White House. Meanwhile, Helen secures a grand colonial mansion on the shores of the Potomac, as a political power-center for TWA, and a home. By war's end, in 1946, TWA has gained enough experience flying war personnel overseas, for Jack to secure the world's commercial air routes. Jack's dream of the first transatlantic commercial air service and round-the-world passenger travel is realized and the 'Camelot Years of TWA' have unfolded! By 1950, after Helen and Jack divorce, Helen remains at their Sedona Ranch. Soon though, she is engaged to Tyrone Power. Later still, she plans a re-marriage to Frye. Tragically, though, Frye is killed by a drunk driver, returning home from a secret meeting with Howard Hughes at Tucson. Sinking into the depths of despair, Helen becomes fodder for a notorious new-age cult called Eckankar. By 1979, she dies of cancer, but not before the group fleeces her of most her assets. Helen's Will is burned by an ex-cult member con artist who had craftily befriended Helen before her death with his youthful charm ending her saga with a sensational estate trial. Is this really the end of Helen's story? Thankfully, no, Helen saw to that! Reaching across the sands of time, she engaged the services of a kindred spirit, a member of her soul-family, a writer with the passion and dedication to insure that she and Jack; their 'telling' was not forgotten. Welcome to the World of Jack and Helen Frye! Note: (The Jack & Helen Frye Story - The Camelot Years of TWA is a Biography, however, it is written in a Novel format. This to reflect a movie script style for future development.) Cover photo by Randall Reynolds- Helen Frye's Wings of the Wind House- View of Cathedral Rock to the North.

From Under the Wheel Aug 28 2021 From Under the Wheel is an introspective look at loss and devastation and helps find a way to reach far beyond the events in our lives that leave scars. It challenges the Why Me? in all of us and exposes the path our choices ultimately create. It encourages a way to move past losses and difficulties by assigning a meaning to individual experiences. And finally, it helps excavate the true intent of your inner self to give purpose to living every day. Lynn Gawronski's view From Under the Wheel is both reality and metaphorical. The picture of the wheel of the single axel flat bed trailer sitting on her chest as it ran her over is forever imprinted in her memory. But even a miraculous recovery wouldn't stop trauma from happening again. Two years later, she was a passenger in a car hit broadside by another and was left partially paralyzed with facial injuries and emotional scars. The next twenty years would prove to challenge every bit of her faith with more tragedy and loss and at times, just life; each time stimulating another wheel and presenting another effort for recovery and healing whether physical or emotional. The end result is the emergence of a life with purpose and renewed spirit, but the book doesn't stop there. She also provides a planning tool and the steps that she is using to help her carry out her purpose in life so that the reader may do the same. With each new challenge and successful outcome, Lynn Gawronski considers herself out From Under the Wheel.

Montesereno Mar 15 2023 Little could Darby Peterson have anticipated the intensity of the challenge his friend Garnett Nelson's invitation would command. Due to a medical condition that requires Nelson's urgent attention, Nelson urges his long-time friend, Darby, to serve as the host and counselor of his Villa during his absence. The Villa, known as Montesereno, is committed to providing rest and renewal for its many clients and guests, suffering from a variety of contemporary disorders. Many who come are obsessed with bipolar anomalies, alcohol and anger issues, along with depression and sexual addictions. Darby recognizes the invitation requires counseling skills that he frankly lacks, as his field is philosophy; nonetheless, he accepts, inasmuch as Garnett has always wanted him to join his staff because of his "friendly and open-minded" nature and background as a "Renaissance man" and "conversationalist." Thus Darby takes a leave of absence from his position as chair of his Atlanta University's department of philosophy for however long Garnett should need him. What Darby cannot know is that his new role will become permanent. Adding to the mystique of his decision, if not contributing to its ultimate success, is the discovery of the Villa's clients of Darby's background as an ex-priest, tormented by his own past, divorce, and quest for love and healing. That the Villa is located in the Returning to Earth after a flight into space is a fundamental challenge, and contributions from the NASA Aeronautics Research Mission Directorate in aerodynamics, thermal protection, guidance and control, stability, propulsion, and landing systems have proven critical to the success of the human space flight and other space programs. Without this base of fundamental and applied research, the capability to fly into space would not exist.
