Road-Kids and Gay-Cats Jan 25 2021 Jack London was an American novelist, journalist, and social activist. A pioneer in the world of commercial magazine fiction, he was one of the first writers to become a worldwide celebrity and earn a large fortune from writing. He was also an innovator in the genre that would later become known as science fiction.

The Wild Road Jul 23 2023 In the grand storytelling style of Watership Down and Tailchaser's Song comes an epic tale of adventure and danger, of heroism against insurmountable odds, and of love and comradeship among extraordinary animals who must brave The Wild Road . . . Secure in a world of privilege and comfort, the kitten Tag is happy as a pampered house pet—until the dreams come. Dreams that pour into his safe, snug world from the wise old cat Majicou: hazy images of travel along the magical highways of the animals, of a mission, and of a terrible responsibility that will fall on young Tag. Armed with the cryptic message that he must bring the King and Queen of cats to Tintagel before the spring equinox, Tag ventures outside. Meanwhile, an evil human known only as the Alchemist doggedly hunts the Queen for his own ghastly ends. And if the Alchemist captures her, the world will never be safe again . . .

The Cats of Tiffany Street Sep 13 2022 One Friday night, at the end of Tiffany Street, six cats meet up to dance: Marmalade Ned, Captain Bligh, Delicate Fan, Pitter and Pat, and Shadow, the stray. But then along comes a man with a van who catnaps five of the dancing mogs. Only Shadow stays free, he hides under the seat when the man drives the van away. The man takes the cats to an empty turkey shed where he locks them up and then goes to sleep on a put-you-up bed underneath. All night long though, Shadow sings from the roof of the shed: Never again will the cats all meet to dance at the end of Tiffany Street. The man tosses and turns until he can take no more. He opens the door of the shed and sets the cats free, and four months later, the cats arrive back sore-footed in Tiffany Street - all except Shadow, who sees that the man isn't really bad, but just lonely and sad. So he decides to live with him - at last, the stray has found a home.

Highway Cats Aug 24 2023 When three kittens are carelessly thrown off the back of a truck, none of the highway cats know what to make of them. They seem to have some sort of appeal?an energy, even?that Khalia Koo, Jolly Roger and the rest of the mangy, feral cats don?t understand. But there are bigger issues to figure out when the bulldozers start coming, threatening to demolish the cats? homes as well as other historical landmarks. Can three little kittens be the answer to save the town? Illustrated with striking silhouettes, here is a spirited and original environmental story from Newbery Honor winner Janet Taylor Lisle about finding help?and hope?in the smallest, most unlikely of places.

Good Luck Cat Apr 08 2022 Lissa Warren's father needed a retirement companion while his wife and daughter were at work. Enter Ting, a seven-pound Korat who changed his life, and the life of the family. All kittens are mischievous, but Ting "the cat grenade" was real trouble. She was also smart, endearing, and the soul of the Warren family. In late 2008, Lissa's father died of a heart attack. The images from that night still haunt her—especially the EKG readout ending in one long, devastating em dash. Less than a year later, Lissa and her mother stared at another EKG readout, this time for Ting. A living feline extension of the man they missed so much—the man they had tried, but failed, to save—she was diagnosed with a potentially fatal heart condition. The only option was to have a human pacemaker implanted in the cat—a procedure even the best animal hospital in Boston hadn't performed in a decade. Thus they began a medical odyssey on behalf of the little gray cat who had been her father's shadow—a journey that would prepare one of them for her own serious diagnosis. A gorgeously written memoir about grief, hope, and how pets both complicate and enrich our lives, The Good Luck Cat is a testament to the power of the human—and the feline—spirit.

The Misadventures of Me and Miss Kitty Jun 10 2022 Miss Kitty lives in a truck with Tory and these are some of the adventures they have had on the road. It hasn't been all fun and games, life is full of struggles and it's not always easy. Miss Kitty wants a pet of her own but not the kind that belongs on a truck. Tory goes through a lot of struggles of her own and often wonders if having a cat on the truck is more trouble than it's worth. How does a cat live in a truck? I am a mother of 2, grandmother of 8 and have a great-grandchild on the way. Born in Colorado and live on the road. I have been a truck driver for over 25 years and had a cat on the truck with me the last ten. The stories I write are pieces of my life so I write with my heart and trust God will allow the things I write to make sense.

Adventure Cats Jan 05 2022 Just when you thought you knew all there was to know about cats comes the ultimate—and unexpected—guide to taking your cat into the wild. Here are cats walking on a leash. Cats hiking on a leash. Cats tramping through snow. Cats camping. Cats kayaking, canoeing, even surfing—yes, cats who love water. Learn how to leash-train a cat. What to do if you encounter wildlife on the trail. Plus, winter safety tips, and how to bring a little bit of the outdoors to an indoor cat. The stories themselves are catnip for animal lovers, from Nanakuli, the one-eyed cat who hangs ten; to Georgie, a four-year-old gray tabby who lives on a sailboat; to Quandary, who not only insists on hiking with her family but also teaches them a valuable lesson: When you follow your cat's natural tendency to wander, you experience the outdoors at a slower, richer pace. This book will delight every cat person, regardless of whether their pet is inclined to adventure. (Take the quiz at the beginning of the book to find out!)

The Golden Cat Jul 31 2021 In The Golden Cat, Gabriel King continues the enchanting quest that began with The Wild Road—the novel the San Francisco Chronicle crowned “mythical,” and Richard Adams, author of Watership Down, deemed “absolutely magical. . .” The ancient prophecy speaks of a golden cat whose coming will heal the troubled world. But the Queen of Cats has three golden kittens—and when two are stolen away, the distraught parents turn to Tag, the brave young cat who is the protector of the magical Wild Road. Queen of the Road Feb 23 2021 A pampered Long Island princess hits the road in a converted bus with her wilderness-loving husband, travels the country for one year, and brings it all hilariously to life in this offbeat and romantic memoir. Doreen and Tim are married psychiatrists with a twist: She's a self-proclaimed Long Island princess, grouchy couch potato, and shoe addict. He's an affable, though driven, outdoorsman. When Tim suggests “chucking it all” to travel cross-country in a converted bus, Doreen asks, “Why can't you be like a normal husband in a midlife crisis and have an affair or buy a Corvette?” But she soon shocks them both, agreeing to set forth with their sixty-pound dog, two querulous cats—and no agenda—in a 340-square-foot bus. Queen of the Road is Doreen’s offbeat and romantic tale about refusing to settle, about choosing the unconventional road with all the misadventures it brings (fire, flood, armed robbery, and finding themselves in a nudist RV park, to name just a few). The marvelous places they visit and delightful people they encounter have a life-changing effect on all the travelers, as Doreen grows to appreciate the simple life, Tim mellows, and even the pets pull together. Best of all, readers get to go along for the ride through forty-seven states in this often hilarious and always entertaining memoir, in which a boisterous marriage of polar opposites becomes stronger than ever.

Kitty Chronicles Oct 02 2021 This first volume of Kitty Chronicles, a factual first person account, opens describing childhood experiences in the late 1920's and early 1930's of an older sister's cats; following a hiatus of a few years, some cat problems of fellow university students are characterized. In San Francisco after a misguided attempt at keeping in his apartment two Siamese cats while the owner was on vacation, the narrator had only casual experiences of other people's cats until he was hired by an estate executor to take care of the dead man's surviving old Siamese tomcat. Of unique interest was the courtship of a Siamese female by a neighborhood tomcat and how the Siamese mother reared her one kitten, a look-alike daughter who matured to help with the education of a second litter of four. A Siamese female brought by a room-mate to Santa Rosa, ingratiates herself by clearly communicating with the man. Rather than endure another season of mouse infestation in San Francisco's cheap hotels, the old man agreed to let his current room-mate provide him with a kitten. Upon seeing the tiny blue-cream three-week-old kitten, the man was so enamored that taking the kitten everywhere with him, he taught the kitten to walk with him without a leash and to climb trees. Finally discovering the kitten was a female, the room-mate suggested that because of her great beauty she be named Cassiopeia, a name to which the cat responded when pronounced with an accented long O of the antepenult. Gaining more confidence in each other, the old man allowed CassiOpeia to stay outside all night in feral cat colonies to learn feline skills, like catching mice and coping with rats. Perhaps by exercising so much freedom to do much as she pleased, ('twas said she had the old man wrapped around her little claws), she broke her hind leg, and while she was still in a walking cast for weeks, her owner had to move with her to a temporary place because the hotel where they were living was sold. Continuing vigorously active in leading her aging owner on a merry chase, CassiOpeia seriously damaged her hip joint, but enabling her to walk without a limp and even to climb trees, the veterinarian constructed a false hip out of cartilage. CassiOpeia played courtship games with an old orange tomcat who came into the yard; however, when walking with her owner, she met a black tomcat, ran off with him into a crawl space, and for the next few days had a romance. The veterinarian had advised that CassiOpeia not mate on her first heat, which fortunately occurred on the other side of town at Lake Merced near the zoo, where she stayed for four days and did not mate with any other cats in the area. In her next heat she persuaded her owner to take her out for a rendezvous with the black tomcat of her choice, and two months later CassiOpeia gave birth to six kittens whom she taught the skills she had learned. Though she tried to see her black mate again, the crawl space had been boarded over, and he was gone. Keeping one gray daughter, Calliope, the old man moved onto Potrero Hill, where CassiOpeia mated again and had a litter of five. While in the midst of getting homes for the kittens, ten days after being struck down by an automobile, the old man came home from the hospital on crutches to mama CassiOpeia, Calliope, and little Marmosette. To prevent the birth of more kittens, both the mother and the older daughter were spayed right away. As the man regained his walking ability, and while CassiOpeia continued to expand her feline social connections, Calliope was entrusted with Marmosette's care and education. The Great Sicilian Cat Rescue - One Englishwoman's Mission to Save An Island's Cats Apr 15 2020 Numerous visitors to Mediterranean countries have found their holiday punctuated by trips to feed hungry feral cats. Some try to save injured and sick felines. Not many have gone to the lengths of Jennifer Pulling with her one-woman campaign, Catsnip. Set against the beautiful and sinister backdrop of Sicily and its enigmatic people, the book charts Jennifer's journey as passionate defender of the island's often abused and ill-treated cats. With no previous experience, she raises funds and, organises teams of British, American and German vets to work in improvised and clandestine surgeries. On her voyage of discovery she encounters the gattare (cat ladies) who devote their time to saving colonies of feral cats; she challenges Sicilian bureaucracy and risks prosecution by the authorities; and she discovers an unknown Sicily, gaining an understanding of the island's history of domination by numerous cultures and the Mafia. Incredibly moving, while peppered with humour, this is the story of one woman's mission to rescue an animal she loves, as well as an insight into a unique culture and landscape.
