Top Reasons Why You Should Never Invest In Opening A Franchise Business, The Advantages And Disadvantages Of Being A Franchisee, And How To Make The Money In Order To Afford To Buy Your Own Franchise Business Jan 16 2023 This essay sheds light on the top reasons why you should never invest in opening a franchise business and also elucidates the advantages and disadvantages of being a franchisee. Moreover, how to make the money in order to afford to buy your own franchise business is delineated in this essay. There are ample reasons as to why you should desist from ever investing in opening a franchise business that go beyond incurring enormous high-start up costs and lacking any modicum of creative control over your franchise business as a franchisee. First and foremost, franchisors are typically not transparent about the actual earnings of their franchisees. When franchisors supply earnings possibilities, they have a proclivity to provide "average sales figures and profits before expenses are deducted" ("Want to buy," n.d.). This is problematic when determining if procuring a franchise business warrants the investment since profitability is greatly overestimated when all the business expenses are taken into account. A diligent investor and prospective franchise owner must take all the business operating expenses into account in order to ascertain if opening a franchise business warrants the investment. Investors should not be solely reliant upon the questionable reported earnings provided to them by the franchisor when it comes to determining if the investment in opening a franchise business warrants the opportunity cost. Second, another deterrent appertaining to investing in opening a franchise business, beyond its enigmatic profitability, is that you will have to pay royalty payments to the franchisor in perpetuity each month as a franchisee which further abates your earnings potential. These royalty payments will severely undermine the profitability of your franchise business since they are "based on a percentage of the sales" ("Want to buy," n.d.). Third, another calamitous issue with investing in opening a franchise business beyond having to pay royalty payments in perpetuity each month is that you are mandated to buy products from the suppliers of the franchisor's choice. This culminates in paying egregiously inflated prices for products and greatly amplifies the costs of goods sold. Moreover, "almost all franchisor receive kickbacks from the vendors. By not allowing you to shop around, you are mandated to pay much higher prices for supplies" ("Want to buy," n.d.). This will further undermine the profitability of your franchise business and will cause your profitability to further erode if your designated supplier further amplifies their product prices. Fourth, another dire issue when investing in opening a franchise business is lack of creative control that the franchisee succumbs to over the franchise business down to the minutiae. In other words, without the approval of the franchisor, you cannot even make minor changes to your franchise business that would streamline its daily business operations and increase its overall profitability. Attaining approval for implementing fruitful changes to the franchise business can be an eminently time consuming and cumbersome process fraught with going through layers of bureaucracy for even simple changes to be approved by the franchisor. "Most franchisors impose price, appearance, and design standards, limiting the ways you can operate the franchise. While these standards can help promote uniformity, they can also vastly stifle your creativity and ability to cater to local tastes or needs" ("Want to buy," n.d.) of customers. In spite of how many operational inefficiencies you can identify within the franchiser's business model, you will be barred from remedying them by implemented beneficial changing to your franchise business without first attaining the franchiser's approval. You also will be not be able to introduce new and innovative products as part of your product offerings without first attaining the approval of corporate.

Business Idea Fundamentals Jul 18 2020 Most people today are walking around mindlessly, asking other people for good business ideas. Successful business ideas are often formulated on the back of due diligence and serve many people who are looking for solutions to similar problems. Too many individuals are following the crowd into densely populated niches where they will find only fierce competition, because many businesses have already successfully established their credibility there. Frequently, this can make the situation difficult for a new start-up business, because they may have to adjust their prices to compete with other businesses within their niche. If you are looking for business ideas, the best recommendation is for you to look around for a problem. This means looking for groups of people who share the same problem or have a specific need. Your opportunity, then, is to find a solution to the problem and turn it into a product or service that will be effective in serving these people. Your business ideas must aim to give your customers as much value as possible and keep them happy. Your role is to create anticipation, which will bring them in and keep them coming back for more. Once you have them in the front door, keep them inside by giving them as much value as possible. Be sure to keep a database of contact details, so that you can provide them with any updates you need to release to your customers. E-mail is preferred because there are no costs associated with sending out emails, and it is a simple way to get the message out to many of your customers from the push of a button. Remember, the best business ideas are founded on a solution that solves people's specific needs. If you are looking to start a business in an already populated niche, make sure you think of ways to differentiate your business from the crowd. Give your clients more value for their time and dollars. A very important tip that I would highly suggest you take into consideration is giving away as much free value as possible. Find a way to give as much free and valuable content to your customers as you can. This will help you in becoming an authority and in building greater credibility/trust with your customers. The rise of the internet bears witness to the quote made famous by Bill Gates - Content is King. Content is now cash and any ability your business has to give away free content will benefit your business financially.

He introduces readers to the black dirt farmers of Orange County who give America its best-tasting onions, to the Catskill's Candy Cane King, and to "Charlie the Butcher," purveyor of the best beef on weck in the state. Filled with color photographs, the book includes a map of the various regions around Upstate New York, allowing readers to create their own cultural and historic food tour.
