ESL Readers and Writers in Higher Education Education describes the challenges ESL students in U.S. postsecondary institutions face when studying in a second language, and offers suggestions for how teachers, advisors, tutors, and institutions might provide support that meets the reading and writing needs of this very important student population. Because the ESL profession as a whole, including what professionals are doing the classroom, sits under the umbrella of an institutional response to a language-related challenge, some solutions aimed at helping students achieve optimal proficiency lie outside of the classroom.
such, this book is based on the assertion that language development support is not the sole responsibility of language teachers. Everyone on campuses that hosts ESL students bears some responsibility for these students' language development. Chapters are therefore, intentionally to appeal to a wide variety of readers from classroom teachers, and teachers in training, to officers, academic advisors, and international student advisors.

With this book, you do. Ashley Wellington, founder of the elite New York college prep agency Mint Tutors, has personalized her hard-hitting advice just for you. This popular topic is often limiting, but Wellington will help you come across as talented—and also thoughtful and well rounded. • Your trip to Egypt? Wellington will help you avoid common travel clichés that make admissions officers groan. • The color yellow? Wellington will make sure you sound quirky and creative in the right way. Wellington's tutees have gained acceptance to Harvard, Yale, Princeton, MIT, Georgetown, Duke, and other elite institutions, and with this book at your side, you can join their ranks.

Essays on the Essay Film Oct 01 2021 The essay—with its emphasis on the provisional and exploratory rather than on definitive statements—has evolved from its literary beginnings and is now flourishing in various mediums, including film. Today, the essay film is, arguably, one of the most widely acclaimed and critically discussed forms of filmmaking around the world, with practitioners such as Chris Marker, Hito Steyerl, Errol Morris, Trinh T. Minh-ha, and Rithy Panh. Characteristics of the essay film include the blending of fact and fiction, the mixing of art- and documentary-film styles, the foregrounding of subjective points of view, a concentration on public life, a tension between audio and visual discourses, and a dialogic encounter with audiences. This anthology of fundamental statements on the essay film offers a range of crucial historical and philosophical perspectives. It provides early critical articulations of the essay film as it evolved through the 1950s and 1960s, contemporary scholarly essays, and a selection of writings by essay filmmakers. It features texts on the foundations of the essay film by writers such as Hans Richter and André Bazin; contemporary positions by, among others, Phillip Lopate and Michael Renov; and original essays by filmmakers themselves, including Laura Mulvey and Isaac Julien.

The Double Face of Janus and Other Essays in the History of Medicine Nov 24 2020 Preeminent historian of medicine Owsei Temkin brought to his writing an awesome range of scholarship, and was at home in the classical, the medieval, and the modern eras. The essays gathered in this book deal with all the topics that Temkin considered most important in his work. They were widely commended for their originality, intelligent analysis, and impressive continuity of thought. Temkin explores the history of basic medical sciences, of health and disease, and of surgery and drugs, as well as general questions concerning the historical and philosophical approach to medicine from antiquity to the early twentieth century. In a retrospective introduction which gives the book its title, Temkin relates his writings to his career as a scholar in Germany and the United States. He situates the writings against the background of the development of the study of medical history and includes recollections of such prominent figures as Karl Sudhoff, Henry E. Sigerist, William H. Welch, and Richard H. Shryock.

Aug 02 2021 The 21st Century is a time of profound and wrenching change. The phrase "stop the world, I want to get off" never seemed more appropriate. Robert Sopuck caught his first fish at age 4 in the presence of his father. That fish set off a lifetime of exploration of the world. He and his bride, the inestimable Caroline, live on 480 acres of wild land south of Manassas Riding Mountain National Park. This book is about their way of life as modern country people who have developed a profound relationship with the land, wildlife, and the ecosystem that supports them. This book describes a way of living with Nature via detailed, funny, informative, and sometimes poignant essays. The first essay, "It All Started with This Fish," describes the beginning of this journey while the second last, "Hunting with Dad" describes his emotions while speaking at his father's funeral about their shared outdoor experiences that made him who he is. In between are hunting stories, "how to" essays on wild food preparation, and descriptions of unique wild experiences. "A Life Outdoors" will show the reader that there is a way of life "out there" that is authentic, joyous, and profound.

The Humble Essay Updated Feb 20, 2023 The Humble Essay is so much more than a writing textbook. It gives you tools, tips, and tricks that actually explain what a writer does. It doesn't sugarcoat or dumb down the very real challenges that entering a college writing space requires. This book reads like a friend. It's the kind of friend that will coach you through a tough time and encourage you when it will make you laugh while you go through it. It's the kind of friend who holds your hair back when you're sick of writing and gives you the courage to try again. Roy K. Humble is the kind of writer-teacher who understands the struggle of learning how to write like a college student and does tell you what you want to hear. His lessons here are profound, but in the sense that they are by someone who wants you to feel included in the conversation about what good college writing should be. He writes to students in language they can understand without becoming English and with just enough humor to keep them reading. He writes for faculty, moving step by step the unadorned guiding principles of effective formal writing so that faculty have a great framework on which to build their classes. Perhaps most importantly, Humble understands that the price of the book matters to students, so his books are affordable. From every perspective, Humble gets it. Humble Essay has students covered on these important topics: Understanding the college essay idea Grasping the stages of the writing process Organizing the college essay around cohesive paragraphs Thinking for yourself as a college student Gathering and synthesizing sources and information Guiding readers through a thoughtful college essay

What I Believe Jul 21 2020 Along with Why I Am Not a Christian, this essay must rank as the most articulate example of Russell's famed atheism. It is also one of the most notorious. Used as evidence in a 1940 court case in which Russell was declared unfit to teach college-level philosophy, What I Believe was to become one of his most defining works. The ideas contained within were and are controversial, contentious and - to the religious - downright blasphemous. A remarkable work that remains the best concise introduction to Russell's thought.

The Middle of Things ^{Dec 18} 2022

In the tradition of classic essayists from Virginia Woolf to A.S. Dillard, Meghan Florian combines personal narrative with careful analysis, taking the ordinary material of undramatic daily life and distilling it into moments of clarity and revelation. Centering each essay in this collection on a different aspect of coming of age as a feminist woman with an ethos of the theological academy and the church, Florian interrogates the problems that arise from trying to inhabit these seemingly incompatible spheres, illuminating aspects of work, relationships, and daily life as a young woman. Part intellectual bildungsroman, part feminist manifesto, together these essays detail midpoints on one young woman's journey from the warm simplicity of a boyhood adolescence with firm faith, through the joys and challenges of academic study that threaten her faith and stability, to find not a place of resolution, but the ability to embrace a life unfolding. ""Meaghan Florian's debut essay collection The Middle of Things shines with candor and intelligence. In the opening essay, Florian offers, 'I developed an internal dialogue, and a renewed sense of wonder and curiosity about the world around me.' It is from this dialogue that bursts forth a myriad of anecdotes that the reader will find effortlessly drawn and endlessly engaging. In essay after essay, guided by her unwavering connection to Kierkegaard's work, Florian presents an ongoing interrogation of the world, recasting doubts and declarations, while forging a voice that is singular and assured."" --Jon F. Sorenson, author of Sleep in Me ""Florian writes about faith and hope and life and learning a la Anne Lamott and Sarah Manguso. She's bright, quick, lively, and fresh, a young master of the essay, which she uses as a vehicle to delight, analyze, explore, digress. She ambles from Kierkegaard to Radiohead and back again without ever losing track of her central question: how do I make--and furnish--a meaningful life?"" --Heather Sellers, Professor of English, University of South Florida Meghan Florian teaches writing at William Peace University and the Center for Theological Writing at Duke University Divinity School. She has written for numerous publications, including Religion Dispatches, The Chronicle of Higher Education, and Religion News Service, and she is the creative writing editor of The Other Journal.
