Two Act Plays Aug 27 2023 This collection TWO ACT PLAYS contains two two act plays: Redemption, and Death of a Psychiatrist. Redemption is a play about a woman who is trying to redeem herself from a mistake she made twenty years before the play begins. Death of a Psychiatrist is about the killing of a psychiatrist by an ex-patient, who thinks the psychiatrist indulged himself, during the therapy, in an egregious form of what is called countertransference.

New One-act Plays for Acting Students Nov 18 2022 This latest volume in a series of short play anthologies compiled by Deb and Norman Bert provides roles for almost any mix of students in an acting class. The plays in this drama book range in mood from serious and heavy to satiric comedy and farce. The heart of the book includes 15 scripts for two actors and five scripts for three actors. All the plays are eight to 15 minutes long and offer balanced roles with no walk-on parts. The playwrights are icons of the American avant garde, writers who have contributed much to regional theatre over recent years. An excellent resource for classrooms and festival competition use, five monologues plus an extensive chapter about rehearsing add value to this book. A bibliography and guidelines on securing the rights to these scripts are also included.

Ladies and Whores Sep 16 2022 "Ladies and Whores" explores female anger in its many forms. Even in this day and age, there is a general belief that women can get angry, perform acts of passive aggressiveness that even the most brilliant of writers could never imagine, and sometimes commit acts of violence when pushed to extremes, but only to protect. To maintain the peace within their specific universe. But there is a line we would never cross simply because of our gender. Never violence just because. We are the caretakers. We are the givers of life. Meanwhile prisons are filling up with women who have committed crimes that are equal to or surpass their male counterparts. Women are also the Goddesses of rationalizations for any indiscretions they might commit. In A Lady Never... Ruth has her religion to justify her actions. She piously states, "Violence? Disgusting. The price paid when dealing with those who have no education, no training, no moral center." Bottom Bitch enters the everyday life of prostitutes and how the anger towards their clients and themselves is hidden. Amelia muses, "Fear and shame. He tried to cover it up, take it back. But it was too late. In that moment, I felt all the power leave him and enter me.” Your Cotton Pickin’ Mind sees Rena using the oldest excuse in the book. It’s everyone else’s fault. She’s just trying to survive. “God loves me.” She smiles. “He’s just not in love with me.” A Lady Never... won Honorable Mention from the Little Theatre of Manchester at Cheney Hall 2004 Greater Hartford Playwrights Competition—Manchester, Ct. Bottom Bitch was featured in the 2003 Trinity-On-Main Fall Festival-New Britain, Ct. Your Cotton Pickin’ Mind won the New England Academy Theatre’s ‘Best of the Series New Play Works for 2002’—New Haven, CT. Other works by the author: A Little Cream in My Coffee, The Truly False Adventures of the Grim Sisters: An S and M, Disco lip-synched, Cannibalistic, Halloween, Love Story, Let the Church Say..., Pilot Fishes. Eugene O'Neill's One-Act Plays Jun 20 2020 Eugene O'Neill, Nobel Laureate in Literature and Pulitzer Prize winner, is widely known for his full length plays. However, his one-act plays are the foundation of his work - both thematically and stylistically, they telescope his later plays. This collection aims to fill the gap by examining these texts, during what can be considered O'Neill's formative writing years, and the foundational period of American drama. A wide-ranging investigation into O'Neill's one-acts, the contributors shed light on a less-explored part of his career and assist scholars in understanding O'Neill's entire oeuvre.
