The past ten years in South Africa has seen many changes in education - the creation of a single department of education; common examinations for all learners in public schools in the country, a new outcomes based education curriculum which was introduced to learners in the general education and training phase since 1998 and will be introduced to the further education and training phase from 2006. To evaluate the success of these changes South African researchers still use the indicator of student achievement. The matriculation examination is the visible, high profile and public performance indicator. Every year parents, learners, teachers, researchers, government officials, policymakers, and the general public get involved in the debate around the matric examination with the most frequently asked questions being - Did the pass rate go up? Are standards dropping? Are the results real or have they been manipulated? How is our education system doing? Are we meeting the development goals? What should the matriculation examination of the future look like? participants from government (national and provincial), The book contains a unique and refreshingly new perspective on education, training and development (ETD) practices in the 21st century workplace context. It moves away from merely revamping known and traditional principles of ETD to providing the reader and student with practical tools and new perspectives on the changing and broadening role of the ETD practitioner in the workplace. It contains new and transformative models, practical applications and guidelines for students and readers on the South African outcomes-based approach to ETD, the profession and practice of ETD, including quality assurance aspects. This book was developed in order to deliver a unit standards-based curriculum that is in line with the National Qualifications-Framework (NQF). This workbook is organised around five theme-based chapters (each in line with a Unit Standard): Society, environment and development; Events, time and space; Social justice, human rights and democracy; Diversity and change; Working for change. To further help you with your ABET studies, the book offers these features and benefits: It is written in an easy-to-read style so that all students can understand the material; It has many lively and relevant activities that students will want to complete; All the curriculum requirements (i.e. Unit Standards, Specific Outcomes (SOs) and Assessment Criteria (ACs) are shown in the introduction; The number of credits for each chapter is listed both in the introduction and in the corresponding chapter; The detailed Contents pages list SOs and ACs again, as do the chapter introductions, so that students can keep track of their own progress; Important words and ideas are highlighted and explained throughout the book; The many illustrations support the text and, together with the diagrams and photographs, develop key concepts; Plenty of Do this now! and Something to know features have been added to increase students' learning experience, skills and information; Useful Facilitator's notes accompany the activities so that facilitators, and students who are working on their own, have all the help they need; A full Glossary at the end of the book gives the meaning of all the most important words used.
