Excerpt from An Historical Sketch of the Old Church, Quincy, Mass The accompanying engraving represents the church belonging to the ancient religious society of Braintree, which, in 1792, became the first society of Quincy, on the incorporation of that town. Quincy was, indeed, the original settlement; the Mount Wollaston; the North Precinct of Braintree. This church was taken down in 1828, on the completion of the present elegant stone edifice. Here, two presidents of our nation, John Adams, and John Quincy Adams his son, were baptized, and here they regularly worshipped. The imposing funeral services at the burial of President John Adams in July 1826, were held in this church. Here too, was baptized, January 16, 1736-7, John Hancock, the patriot, President of the Continental Congress, by his father. Rev. John Hancock, fifth pastor of the church. The church has thus an historic name. This engraving was originally made for the History of Quincy published in 1827, by the late Rev. George Whitney of Roxbury, oldest son of the last pastor of the ancient church. The writer of the present sketch prepared a portion of it, some years since, for another publication. At the request of the editor of the Register he has revised and enlarged the same, and sent it with the engraving for insertion in this number. The church was built in the ministry of Rev. John Hancock, who was ordained Nov. 2, 1726. A record by him informs us: It was raised July 27- '8- '9, 1731 in peaceable times. Before its erection, the society worshipped in a stone church which stood near the present Second Congregational church, on Hancock street. This old stone church remained until Feb. 18, 1747-8, when a vote passed to sell it to the highest bidder. It was sold to Serg. Moses Belcher and Mr. Joseph Nightingale, for 100 old tenor. Whether or not this was the original church edifice of the society cannot be determined. In the absence of certain testimony, I incline to the belief that there had been an earlier building than the old stone church, probably on about the same site. The church which we commemorate did not arise without many town meeting debates and votes. From the precinct records we learn that as early as Nov., 1695, a vote was passed for the erection of a new building, and there the matter was left. Dec. 22, 1729, the vote was again taken and decided in the affirmative.

"January 5, 1729-30," say the records: "Then, after a considerable debate of the precinct about a place where to set the said meetinghouse, a vote was asked whether it should be set at Col. Quincy's gate; it passed in the negative. "Then, whether where the old meeting-house stands, or near unto it; it passed in the negative. Excerpt from An Historical Sketch of Littleton: Its Rise and Development; The Men Who Made and Are Making Its History Those primeval necessities, a grist mill and saw mill, were first located in 1787 - 8 by Jonathan Rankin, on Rankin's brook, near the present site of the saw mill and grist mill at Patten ville. They were soon purchased by James Rankin, a thrifty Scotchman, and later successfully operated nearly half a century by his son, Gen. David Rankin. The second saw mill was located at North Littleton, and. The third near the present mill of the Littleton Lumber Co. The second grist mill, and the one which has been the main reliance of the town for almost a century, was built by Solomon Mann, in 1799. It has been renovated and repaired until very little is left of the original mill, and is now operated by James Brown.

This fascinating history of Littleton, Massachusetts, tells the story of the town's founding and growth. Walbridge draws on a wide range of sources to explore the development of the town's economy and culture over the centuries, with particular attention paid to the experiences of individual residents. With detailed descriptions of local landmarks and plenty of historical context, this book is a must-read for anyone interested in early American history. Trieste Publishing has a massive catalogue of classic book titles. Our aim is to provide readers with the highest quality reproductions of fiction and non-fiction literature that has stood the test of time. The many thousands of books in our collection have been sourced from libraries and private collections around the world. The titles that Trieste Publishing has chosen to be part of the collection have been scanned to simulate the original. Our readers see the books the same way that their first readers did decades or a hundred or more years ago. Books from that period are often spoiled by imperfections that did not exist in the original. Imperfections could be in the form of blurred text, photographs, or missing pages. It is highly unlikely that this would occur with one of our books. Our extensive quality control ensures that the readers of Trieste Publishing's books will be delighted with their purchase. Our staff has thoroughly reviewed every page of all the books in the collection, repairing, or if necessary, rejecting titles that are not of the highest quality. This process ensures that the reader of one of Trieste Publishing's titles receives a volume that faithfully reproduces the original, and to the maximum degree possible, gives them the experience of owning the original work. We pride ourselves on not only creating a pathway to an extensive reservoir of books of the finest quality, but also providing value to every one of our readers. Generally, Trieste books are purchased singly - on demand, however they may also be purchased in bulk. Readers interested in bulk purchases are invited to contact us directly to enquire about our tailored bulk rates. Excerpt from An Historical Sketch, Town of Deer Isle, Maine: With Notices of Its Settlers Its Early Inhabitants From the account given us, they appeared to have been as well pleased with what they saw, as was Pring two years earlier. The intercourse of Weymouth with the natives was at first friendly, but, unfortunately for his reputation, he kidnapped five of them and carried them to England, three of whom he delivered to Sir Ferdinand Georges, who kept them in his family three years, and in 1639 the Province of Maine was chartered to him.
