Challenging US Human Rights Violations Since 9/11 Mar 03 2022 Activists, students, teachers, lawyers, government officials, and judges will welcome this thoroughly researched, comprehensive examination of human rights violations in the wake of 9/11. Meiklejohn Civil Liberties Institute Executive Director Ann Fagan Ginger has created an accessible, well-organized reference work divided into six parts:· Part I, The Mobilization of Shame, describes executive orders violating basic rights, and citizen reactions, emphasizing that reporting violations has brought about many new programs in various areas, from new treatments for AIDS to new practices in South Africa to stop apartheid practices.· Part II, What the People and their Lawyers Can Do in the U.S., spells out the complaint process through the little known offices of Inspector General, and in U.S. federal and state courts.· Part III, What the Government Is Committed and Required To Do in the United Nations and Organization of American States, begins the unique discussion of the reports the U.S. Government is now required to make under three human rights treaties ratified by the U.S., and how the reporting process has brought about improvements in many countries. · Part IV, Report on Human Rights Violations, forms the bulk of the book. It describes all the relevant facts in 160 reports on 28 types of violations, from the Right Not To Be Killed or Disappeared to the Government's Duty to Count the Votes Accurately and Report to the People Honestly. Activists will find all the facts they need in each report: who did what to whom and when. Lawyers will also find the specific laws being violated by the actions, and inactions, of government officials, military personnel, agents, and contractors. · Part V, Text of Petitions, Resolutions, Ordinances, spells out what has been proposed, and adopted, since 9/11 to stop violations. · Part VI, Text of Laws Violated and Ignored, provides the language of the U.S. Constitution, Bill Of Rights, Articles in the UN Charter, the Convention Against Torture, the Geneva Conventions, and other human rights and international law treaties the U.S. has ratified or signed. This is an indispensable tool for citizens' awareness and defending civil liberties in the era of the Patriot Act and the War against Terror. Ann Fagan Ginger (San Francisco, CA) is the former president (1964-1988) and the current executive director of the Meiklejohn Civil Liberties Institute. She lectures frequently on human rights for the ACLU, National Lawyers Guild committees, United Nations Association, and many other organizations.

Fahrenheit 451 - Literature Kit Gr. 9-12
Nov 30 2021 Get drawn into a dystopian world to witness the struggle between one's self and their society. Students imagine what themes might be present in a dystopian future as perceived during the early 1950s. Predict what will happen to the woman whose books were hidden in the attic. Complete a paragraph from the novel with their missing vocabulary words. Answer multiple choice questions about the character Faber. Students reflect on the women's discussion of the two presidential candidates, and whether a person's name and appearance plays any factor in today's politics. Depict an alternate reality where Beatty and Montag join forces concerning their interest with books and the information they contain. Aligned to your State Standards and written to Bloom's Taxonomy, additional crossword, word search, comprehension quiz and answer key are also included. About the Novel: Fahrenheit 451, written by Ray Bradbury, is the story of a man's struggle with his society and himself. The story begins with Guy Montag, a "fireman" charged with the job of burning books that have become outlawed.

In this society, books have been deemed to have no value with new media and sports accommodating short attention spans. His struggle begins when he meets his neighbor Clarisse McClellan, a free-thinker that begins to open his mind. From there, he soon finds himself stealing the books he was tasked to destroy. Montag's struggle culminates in an attempt to discover the value of books himself, putting him in the very same danger as those he once persecuted.

Memorials to Shattered Myths May 25 2021
Although radically different, the Vietnam War, the Oklahoma City bombing, the Columbine High School shootings, and the attacks of 9/11 all shattered myths of national identity. Vietnam was a war the United States didn't win; Oklahoma City revealed domestic terrorism in the heartland; Columbine debunked legends of high school as an idyllic time; and 9/11 demonstrated U.S. vulnerability to international terrorism.

Does Mark 16:9–20 Belong in the New Testament? Mar 15 2023
For almost fifty years, much has been written concerning Mark

16:9-20. During the same time period, evidence once counted against Mark 16:9-20 was shown to be otherwise. In this study, David W. Hester surveys modern scholarship (1965-2011) surrounding the passage. He examines the passage itself--the external evidence, with particular attention paid to the manuscripts and the patristics, especially those of the second and third centuries; and the internal evidence, featuring details that are problematic as well as those that favor Markan authorship. Finally, a proposal concerning the origin of the passage is presented. The first edition of Mark's Gospel ended at 16:8, resulting in the manuscript tradition that omits the passage, but this was not his intended ending. Later, his associates attached Mark's notes and published a second edition of the Gospel with the last twelve verses. This led to its inclusion. Given that the passage is cited by second- and third-century witnesses and attributed to Mark, along with the biblical prohibition against adding to or taking from Scripture, it is doubtful that an anonymous second-century author could have been successful in adding his own composition and it being widely accepted by the early church.
