Intended as a resource for both trainers and trainees in early childhood development and education, and based on the principles of active learning and participatory training, this five-part training pack encourages the incorporation of active learning materials in training and invites cooperation in adapting participatory training materials to specific cultural setting. The first part of the training pack, "Introduction to the Training Pack," introduces the principles of active learning and participatory training; discusses reasons for the development of the training pack; outlines the four main distinguishing features of the training materials; and provides an overview of the contents of the training pack. The second part, "Delivering Effective Training," discusses principles related to the processes of training adults and of adult learning, and details seven effective participatory training methods, including role-play, focused activities, and case studies. This part of the training pack also takes a critical look at the training evaluation and makes some suggestions for change. The third part, "Guide to the Development of the Young Child," presents current scientific knowledge about universal stages of development, and of certain patterns and processes that characterize given developmental stages, regardless of culture. The developmental information is divided by age level up to 6 years. The fourth part, "Rationale for Experiential/Participatory Methods," explores the efficacy of experiential/participatory learning in training of early childhood teachers. This part examines the theories of major figures in philosophy, psychology, and education, and discusses the concepts of knowledge, cultural difference, and adult learning from a theoretical perspective. The fifth part of the training set, "Resource List," provides an annotated bibliography and list of resources to assist trainers using experiential/participatory learning. (HTH)

For information on competences required, training activities and assessment tools for education for democratic citizenship The Council of Europe has been protecting children's digital rights, and fostering opportunities for children's educational and cultural development in the digital environment for over a quarter of a century. Most recently it has focused on actions designed to empower children as "active digital citizens", building on the Council of Europe framework of competences for democratic culture. The Reference framework aims to prepare citizens for "living together as equals in culturally diverse democratic societies". In 2016, the Steering Committee for Educational Policy and Practice of the Council of Europe launched a new intergovernmental project, Digital Citizenship Education. The aim of the project is to help reshape the role education plays in enabling children and young people to acquire the competences they need to participate actively and responsibly in democratic society as digital citizens, both online and offline. This present publication is the work of the following members of the Digital Citizenship Education expert group: Pascale Raulin-Serrier (France), Alessandro Soriani (Italy), Olena Styslavska (Poland), Vitor Tomé (Portugal) and was edited by Ted Huddleston (United Kingdom). Embrace the Gritty Reality of Training Ever watched half your class stomp out on you? Fallen asleep facilitating a creativity workshop? Planned a bulletproof lesson plan, then dropped it 10 minutes after you started? Don't worry—it's fine to confess. If you have faced a surprise in the training room, chances are Jonathan Halls has seen it, too. As a result, he doesn't pretend to be a shiny happy trainer anymore; his 25-plus years of training and facilitating in 25 countries have taught him not to stress over a less-than-flawless class—and helped him focus less on himself and more on letting his learners shine. In Confessions of a Corporate Trainer: An Insider Tells All, Jonathan tells relatable and charming stories of what corporate training is really about, drawing from his highly rated train-the-trainer workshops and hundreds of honest conversations with like-minded trainers. He recounts the curveball he was thrown midway through a change management workshop in Zagreb, Croatia—and how it showed him the futility of overplanning. He shares the time a fire alarm disrupted a training program he led in Washington, D.C., and how he embraced the interruption. And he reflects on what conspires to knock trainers off their game (psst: demanding clients, heavy workloads, and frequent travel are only a few of the culprits). Discover the gritty reality of training. Confessions of a Corporate Trainer will entertain you, challenge you, and remind you why you as a trainer are so important in today's workplace. Long valued as a guide for trainers and managers in need of a quick refresher, this resource has been completely updated with hundreds of ready-to-use techniques arranged in an easy-reference format.
