Living with his little brother, Fudge, makes Peter Hatcher feel like a fourth grade nothing. Whether Fudge is throwing a temper tantrum in a shoe store, smearing smashed potatoes on walls at Hamburger Heaven, or scribbling all over Peter's homework, he's never far from trouble. He's a two-year-old terror who gets away with everything—and Peter's had enough. When Fudge walks off with Dribble, Peter's pet turtle, it's the last straw. Peter has put up with Fudge too long. How can he get his parents to pay attention to him for a change? When fairy-godmother-in-training Willow's wish to attend a human school comes true, she finds getting along with humans to be harder than she expected, but her newly-acquired magical talent makes it easy to collaborate with animals. Kids need to develop critical thinking skills. This journal asks challenging questions for fourth-graders to think and write about: What annoying sounds do you hear at school? Why do babies cry so much? Do you mind being by yourself sometimes? How does your body feel carrying a backpack? Has someone hurt your feelings by not wanting to play with you? What do you like about your skin? Have you ever scared someone? Which animals do humans eat? Why can't children drive cars? How can a cell phone keep you safe? How does dancing make you feel? What annoying things do dogs do? Can you get an "F" on riding your bike? What makes your father upset with you? When did you cry most recently when alone? How does the wind help flowers? What funny things does your grandma say? How does a hippo move from one place to another? Why do cockroaches run away? What if you break the rules? Do you like being with other kids? And more. Designed for the Gifted and Talented student wanting to improve their thinking and writing.
