 commission on the fisheries of the province of Ontario, 1893", issued as an addendum to vol. 26, no. 7. The Mystery of Mrs. Blencarrow is not a traditional mystery, but more about hidden secrets and the oppressive nature of Victorian society. It shows a middle-aged Victorian woman acting in strong and unexpected ways, with results both surprising and inevitable. A fine short novel, written against established Victorian conventions of the day Margarete Oliphant (1828-1897) has long been decried as a conventional hack. This study shows that she was, in fact, an original and quite subversive writer, who radically re-interpreted traditional motifs and challenged values and ideals sacrosanct to the age. In her novels she turned upside down Victorian stereotypes of gender roles, marriage and family hierarchy, presented religious questions, death-bed scenes and the hereafter from a new and unconventional angle, and in her portrayal dispensed with models almost all of her contemporaries were content to follow. She deserves a permanent place in the gallery of nineteenth-century authors. Mrs. Oliphant (nee Margaret Oliphant Wilson) was a Scottish writer of "domestic realism, historical novel and tales of the supernatural." Margaret Oliphant (1828-97) was a Scottish novelist and historical writer of the Victorian era who usually wrote as Mrs Oliphant. Her fictional works encompass domestic realism, the historical novel, and tales of the supernatural. As a girl she constantly experimented with writing and in 1849 her first novel Passages in the Life of Mrs Margaret Maitland was published. It was followed in 1851 by Caleb Field, and in that year she met the publisher William Blackwood who invited her to contribute to Blackwood's Magazine. The association would last throughout her lifetime during which she contributed well over 100 articles. In 1852 she married her cousin Frank with whom she had six children, three of whom died in infancy. The family moved to Italy in 1859 for the sake of Frank's health but he died in Rome leaving his wife almost entirely without resources, and on her return to England she was dependent on her literary output to support her three surviving children. She soon established herself as a popular writer and worked hard to sustain this position, but her private life was dogged with sorrow as her remaining children all pre-deceased her. Oliphant wrote over 120 works, mostly novels, but also travel books, biographies, historical works and volumes of literary criticism. Some of her most popular fictional works are the six novels which make up The Chronicles of Carlingford, originally serialised in Blackwood's from 1862-5 prior to book publication. This novella first published in 1890 tells the story of a widow left the management of her late husband's estate and the trusteeship of the children, helped only by her steward, Mr Brown, a young man of a lower class who stays well in the background. After a time a rumour emerges that Mrs Blencarrow's name was seen in the marriage register at Gretna Green, and this rumour is spread by a young local girl who does not, however, recall the name coupled with Mrs Blencarrow's. The implication is that the widow has done something shameful and so has no right to the estate or the guardianship of her own children, and the reader is kept in suspense, wondering what, and how much, will be revealed, and what will be the outcome for Mrs. Blencarrow. Rev. ed. of: Whirligigge of time. Leiden: Leiden University, 2004. "Report of the Dominion fishery commission on the fisheries of the province of Ontario, 1893", issued as vol. 26, no. 7, supplement.
