Tre amici e un sogno: un viaggio che dal Nord Italia li conduca in Cina, a Pechino, attraversando Grecia, Turchia, Iran, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, Tagikistan e Kirghizistan. Straordinario, dirà il lettore. Di più; incredibile, se si pensa che i tre decidono di farlo in moto. Un'avventura epocale, un progetto grandioso, un'estate trascorsa su due ruote nelle più svariate condizioni climatiche, sotto la pioggia, il soffocante caldo del deserto, venti impetuosi, il pungente freddo in alta quota. Torrenti e strade polverose, cantieri e paradisi inesplorati, paesaggi ameni lungo corsi d'acqua rigogliosi di vegetazione, l'incanto delle montagne innevate, paesi dimenticati da dio, città in forte crescita ed espansione... E ancora, il fascino dei siti archeologici, parchi naturali, templi carichi di spiritualità, i gioielli patrimonio dell'Unesco. Infine, e soprattutto, la gente: gli incontri con i bambini incuriositi dai "marziani" provenienti dall'Europa, i vecchi, le donne nascoste sotto ai veli, quelle che vivono l'emancipazione nei Paesi che si affacciano a una vita nuova, l'accoglienza calorosa delle popolazioni più umili, la solidarietà con gli altri motociclisti e con gli ancora più coraggiosi ciclisti, "fratelli" di sogni e ambizioni. Invidierà il lettore perfino la fatica dei giorni ivi narrati: parteciperà all'entusiasmo e alle difficoltà con trasporto, vivendo tappa dopo tappa il viaggio della vita. Guido Schmidt è nato a Stoccarda il 7 ottobre 1970. Fin da piccolo gira per il mondo con i suoi genitori, in particolare i primi viaggi in Africa con una permanenza prolungata di due anni in Zimbabwe (ex-Rhodesia) hanno lasciato il segno e hanno piantato il seme di una forte voglia di conoscere il mondo. Durante il periodo scolastico e universitario inizia a intraprendere numerosi viaggi in autonomia, utilizzando la moto non solo come mezzo di trasporto ma come stile di vita. Attualmente lavora nel campo della finanza. Vive in Lombardia con la moglie e due figlie.

Collective Bargaining for Self-Employed Workers in Europe Approaches to Reconcile Competition Law and Labour Rights Founding Editor: Roger Blanpain General Editor: Frank Hendrickx Edited by Bernd Waas & Christina Hießl

The increase in the number of self-employed workers, partially in response to the advent of the platform economy, has raised the spectre of horizontal price-fixing by self-employed members of a profession. This perception, however, is at odds with international labour standards, under which self-employed persons should also be able to conclude collective agreements to some extent. It is now commonplace for companies to offer various forms of non-standard employment that shift risk from the labour engager to the labour provider - which may increase the likelihood of those workers to fall outside the legal concept of 'employee' and because of that affects their legal protection. Legal practitioners may then face a dilemma: what may be required under labour law may be prohibited under antitrust law. In the first comprehensive analysis of these intensely debated issues, the authors argue that there is an urgent need to address the current legal puzzle, including through regulatory measures. This must include, in particular, the existing regulation at the level of the European Union (EU), which dominates competition law in the Member States. The book combines an analysis of the supranational framework by experts in labour law as well as competition law with in-depth country reports from Member States of the EU in which regulations and/or practices of collective bargaining for the self-employed exist. Among the many issues discussed in this book are the following: collective bargaining and international labour rights; self-employed individuals and the concept of undertaking in EU competition law; the concept of 'social dumping'; the importance of the case law of the European Court of Justice; the concept of 'vulnerability'; competition authorities' enforcement strategies and priorities; the concept of 'false self-employed'; and the possible introduction of exemptions, presumptions, safe harbours, or smart regulation solutions in competition law. The book gives an insight into the legal situation in Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, the Netherlands, Poland, Slovenia, Spain, and Sweden. These reports discuss the current practice of collective bargaining and how the current law is reflected in the academic discourse on the right of self-employed people to bargain collectively. This important book, in its presentation of legally sound and effective ways to shape the application of the right to bargain collectively that are attuned to the business and technological realities of the twenty-first century, promotes an understanding of the consequences for current law and practice and offers a basis for a discussion of regulatory measures addressing existing challenges. Practitioners of labour law and competition law, national competition authorities, and other interested parties will benefit from the detailed analysis and extensive findings. The story of Italian cycling is the story of Italy in the twentieth century. The Art of Objects is a cultural history of early Italian industrialism, set against the political, social, and intellectual background of post-unification Italy, and a cutting-edge investigation of the formation of Italy's industrial culture at the turn of the twentieth century. Providing a close examination of several objects of mass consumption, including watches, photographs, bicycles, gramophones, cigarettes, and toys, author Luca Cottini explores the transformation of these objects from commercial items into aesthetic and philosophical icons. By focusing on the cultural significance of these objects as they enter the market and appear in contemporary works of art and literature, The Art of Objects outlines a comprehensive view of the age between the unification of Italy and Fascism, encompassing production and consumption, aesthetics and entrepreneurship, industry and the humanistic tradition. The observation of the slow formation of new languages, practices, and experiences around these objects also provides valuable insight into the creative laboratory of Italy's early industrial culture. By reconstructing the origins of the Italian culture of design, the book ultimately investigates Italy's critical reception of industrialism, the nation's so-called "imperfect" modernization, and its ongoing quest for an original way to modernity. Si dice Catalogna e subito si pensa a Barcellona, alle sue spiagge, a Gaudí e alla movida. Ma la Catalogna è molto più di questo. Per scoprire i lati nascosti di questa terra insieme frenetica e selvaggia, Richard Guise, in sella alla bicicletta Benny, ha percorso quattrocento chilometri di vie secondarie costiere e collinari intorno a Barcellona. Nel suo viaggio lento tra coste bellissime e speroni di roccia abitati solo dalle capre, ha scoperto una nazione nella nazione, con una lingua e una cultura proprie, ha conosciuto gli abitanti del posto, scoperto come si balla la sardana, imparato cosa si fa in una bugaderia. Un viaggio originale e ricco di aneddoti divertenti, foto e informazioni pratiche sulle tappe. The first monographic publication focused on the Florentine UFO group (1968–1978), that conducts a historical analysis of its work, reveals its close relationship with the contemporary artistic, literary and architectural avant-garde and, finally, investigates its legacy for the contemporary project. The contemporary context is defined by a unique conjuncture. On one hand, we witness the revival of the Radical Architecture that from the avant-garde experiments of the origins recovers creative processes and iconographic fragments while nullifying the original ideological and political values. On the other hand, we see social protests in defense of fundamental rights of democracy, as in 1968. With these premises, Architecture is now reinvestigating those ephemeral experiments that have endured half a century as new "stone monuments" capable of indicating new perspectives for both research and design. Placing UFO group, one of the authors of those still poorly known "monuments", at the core of the contemporary debate means investigating their formal and seductive aspects, but also the ideological, political and social values with which objects, installations and happenings have been innervated, transforming them into devices of an architecture nourished by literature, art and political commitment for the foundation of an eloquent and activist project even more radical than the well-known Superstudio and Archizoom. The collaboration between Beatrice Lampariello, an architecture historian specialized in the 1960s and 1970s, and False Mirror Office, a group of historians and designers engaged in the rediscovery of UFO group, lead to a monograph focused on the UFO's work and an evaluation of their legacy relative to contemporary architecture. This monograph is composed of three sections: 1) History, a first-ever study of UFO by False Mirror Office via analysis of all archival and bibliographic sources, as well as a series of interviews with UFO members and a collection of its writings (published and unpublished), for the first time translated into English; 2) Context, composed of essays by historians and architectural theorists (Beatrice Lampariello, Simon Sadler, Anna Rosellini, Giovanni Galli, Jacopo Galimberti) intended to place UFO's work in the context of the avant-garde that influenced its work, from the experience of Florentine Radical Architecture to Umberto Eco's theories on semiotics and the American experiences between Pop Art, Video Art and Happening; 3) Legacy, articulated through graphic contribution and essays by young designers, as False Mirror Office, Parasite 2.0, Point Supreme, Jimenez Lai, Andrew Kovacs, Adam Nathaniel Furman, Traumnovelle, (ab)Normal and Peter Behrbohm, to investigate UFO's legacy relative to the contemporary revival of the most distinguishing creative processes and obsessions that shaped the so-called Radical Architecture. C'è Maurice Garin, il gigantesco spazzacamino che vinse il primo Tour de France e alla fine di una tappa massacrante cenò con due polli, tre bistecche, una frittata di venti uova, dodici banane e due litri di vino rosso. C'è Bottecchia, che cadde mentre era in testa al Tour ma trovò la forza di rialzarsi, contuso e dolorante, quando il commissario della squadra italiana intonò per lui il canto degli alpini. Ci sono Bartali e Coppi come novecenteschi Ettore e Achille, c'è il fantascientifico record dell'ora di Moser, c'è Pantani con le sue imprese dal sapore antico, e poi Merckx il cannibale e Lance Armstrong il texano dagli occhi di ghiaccio. Parliamo italiano!, Binder Ready Version, Edition 5 continues to offer a communicative, culture based approach for beginning students of Italian. Not only does Parliamo Italiano provide students learning Italian with a strong ground in the four ACTFL skills: reading, writing, speaking, and listening, but it also emphasizes cultural fluency. The text follows a more visual approach by integrating maps, photos, regalia, and cultural notes that offer a vibrant image of Italy. The chapters are organized around functions and activities. Cultural information has been updated to make the material more relevant. In addition, discussions on functional communications give readers early success in the language and encourage them to use it in practical situations. Eighteen million Vespas have buzzed their way into the world since 1946. Stood end to end, they would form a line measuring 32,000 kilometres - 20,000 miles - in length. This is an almost inconceivable statistic, as with many things that transcend conventional measures and at some point achieve cult status. How did the little machine come so far? The answer is simple. The Vespa has always remained the Vespa, true to itself, and has what others lack: real character! This book tells the Vespa's story via over 470 photos, corrects many misconceptions and lets the reader become immersed in the culture of Vespa and la bella vita. Italian poet, novelist, literary critic and translator Cesare Pavese (1908-1950) is generally recognized as one of the most important writers of his period. Between the years 1929 and 1933, Pavese enjoyed a rich correspondence with his Italian American friend, the musician and educator Antonio Chiuminatto (1904-1973). The nature of this correspondence is primarily related to Pavese's thirst to learn about American culture, its latest books, its most significant contemporary writers, as well as its slang. This volume presents an annotated edition of Pavese and Chiuminatto's complete epistolary exchange. Mark Pietralunga's brilliant introduction provides historical and cultural context for the letters and traces Pavese's early development as a leading Americanist and translator. The volume also includes an appendix of Chiuminatto's detailed annotations and thorough explanations of colloquial American terms and slang, drawn from the works of Sinclair Lewis, Sherwood Anderson, and William Faulkner. A lively and illuminating exchange, this collection ultimately corroborates critical opinion that America was the igniting spark of Pavese's literary beginnings as a writer and translator. Aracoeli (1982) was the last novel written by Elsa Morante (1912-85), one of the most significant Italian writers of the twentieth century. The journey, both geographical and memorial, of a homosexual son in search of his dead mother is a first-person narrative that has puzzled many critics for its darkness and despair. By combining scholars from different disciplines and cultural traditions, this volume re-evaluates the esthetical and theoretical complexity of Morante's novel and argues that it engages with crucial philosophical and epistemological questions in an original and profound way. Contributors explore the manifold tensions staged by the novel in connection with contemporary philosophical discourse (from feminist/queer to political theory to psycho-analysis) and authors (such as Emilio Gadda, Pier Paolo Pasolini and Pedro Almodovar). The Power of Disturbance shows that by creating a 'hallucinatory' representation of the relationship between mother and child, Aracoeli questions the classical distinction between subject and object, and proposes an altogether new and subversive kind of writing.
